Section 3.6 PRIVATE PRACTICE

As a organisational psychologist working as a sole trader or independently (As defined financially) is quite acceptable in my view if the psychologist (who is gathering experience and expertise) works alongside, perhaps as an Associate, an experienced qualified Psychologist. Quite often in the field of Organisational Psychology this is the only way opportunities in the business world present themselves. I appeal to the PBA to be more mindful that different factors come into play outside the Academic fields or Health services.
