

To whom it may concern,

I would like to express my agreement with the recent submission made by Libby Brook regarding the proposed introduction of the National Psychology Exam.

I am currently studying the Masters in Applied Psychology (Organisational) and believe that such an exam is not a good idea for the psychology profession. I will not go into further details about my opinion on this as I believe Libby has outlined important points perfectly. However, I am happy to be contacted if you would like me to provide further information.

Regards,

Anna Taimre

Master of Applied Psychology (Organisational) student at Murdoch University